

John Hipchen Biography

John Hipchen has over 14 years of experience with heat exchanger technologies, including the marketing of copper alloys as well as manufacturing technologies for brazing and soldering. Previously, he managed the development of new markets for specialized equipment systems. John was graduated from Loyola University in Chicago and spent his early career working as a chemist.